Subject: Question re: Urban Greening Plan grants

The draft guidelines give examples of ineligible urban greening plans or applications. One of these is "plans that revise rather than create urban greening plans." Question:

If a proposed project were to include updates to an existing urban forest management plan as part of a larger master urban greening planning project to be funded under this program, would the activity be excluded from consideration?

Our jurisdiction does not have a comprehensive urban greening plan but we would like to acknowledge the importance of existing plans and incorporate them into a more comprehensive urban greening strategy that addresses multiple objectives.

Thanks,
